Jay, Will share the best and worst of times; will laughed & cried together. I really loved to be around you (and your family too). I felt as though that was where I belonged instead of here. What I'm trying to say, is thanks for the memories. Someday, will be able to make more memories and remember the old ones together. If you can remember all that you told me & taught me, you'll do really well.

Take A Look At Us . . .

Academically

Ohio schools are superior in the nation. Theodore Roosevelt High School was one of the 16 Ohio secondary schools that the U.S. Department of Education recognized for excellence in education. Ohio had the greatest number of schools recognized.

The average percentage of pupils in daily attendance in Ohio schools for the 1984-85 school year was 93.6%. Roosevelt's average daily attendance for this year was 93%. This was a ten-year high for high school attendance around the state.

Ohio is at a ten-year low for dropouts in the state. Only 2.4% of students in grades 7-12 droppped out of school.

The State Board of Education presented 27,658 Awards of Distinction to high school graduates for completing approved courses of Basic Studies or Vocational Education. This was the highest figure ever. There were more than 27 times the number issued when the award was first presented in 1959. Seventy-six Roosevelt students received these awards.

More than 30,000 Ohio students from over 800 secondary schools took the Ohio Tests of Scholastic Achievement. This was the largest number of participants since the program began in 1929. Fifty-eight Roosevelt students participated.

Even though the mean Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) verbal score in Ohio was 460, well above the national mean of 431, Roosevelt's mean was well above it at 495. Roosevelt's average of 533 on Math was also higher than the Ohio average of 504. The Ohio average of 19.2 on the American College Test (ACT) was far above the national average of 18.6. However, Roosevelt's average was 20.7.

Theodore Roosevelt High School students were proud to attend such a superior high school.

Take A Look At Us . . .

'Active'

Almost every student in Roosevelt was involved in some kind of club or activity throughout the school year. Many of the clubs held dances, car washes, sucker sales, and other fund raisers to raise money for their group activities.

Mrs. Emma Owen, activities coordinator, said "We had the best leadership this year in a lot of different clubs." It was the first year for the Student Leadership Interclub Council meetings. The student council also sponsored a leadership workshop.

There were large turnouts this year at the Junior-Senior Prom, Homecoming, Pops Concert, the Spring and Fall plays, and the Battle of the Bands.

Take A Look At Us . . .

Athletically

Roosevelt athletes and coaches have always been superior in the Metro League and in Ohio. However, this year was superior to the past. Four Roosevelt seniors were named to All-Ohio first teams: Kevin McCarthy in basketball, Doug Flinn in baseball, Wes Murphy in wrestling, and Sheri Slonsky in track (discus).

Mr. David Grosse, athletic director, commented, "All of our past accomplishments are now history for 1985-86 and we look forward to continued success in all areas of athletics in the future."

Take A Look At Me Now: Fall '85

by Cyndi Maxwell

Take a look at me now, was the theme of the 1985 homecoming dance. The dance was held on October 26, in the autumn-filled RHS gym. Pumpkins, corn stalks, and leaves were scattered throughout the gym, giving it the touch of a crisp autumn night.

Kay Chesnut was crowned queen during the Friday night football game, which ended in a 37-6 victory over Springfield. Other members on this year's court were: Margee Nemec, freshman attendant; Janelle Lewis, sophomore attendant; and Tina Wiland, junior attendant. The senior queen candidates included: Caroline Walker, Maria Andes, Lisa Cain, Wendy Kelsch, and Kelly McMullen.

The only foul-up on the evening's events was when the balloons failed to fall during the queen's dance. A fifteen minute delay was taken while everyone watched as fellow students made futile attempts at punching a hole in the bag holding the balloons. Finally Damon Lewis hit the spot and the dance went on as the balloons fell.

A Night In Heaven Prom '86

by Cyndi Maxwell

The 1986 Junior-Senior prom was held on May 10. It was presented by the class of '87 and given the theme "A Night In Heaven." Silver stars, white lights, clouds, and water fountains filled the school and created a heavenly scene.

Mr Gessford, Art teacher, was "head angel" for the evening and announced each couple as they crossed through the golden gates to heaven. Mrs. Charlene Race, junior class advisor, commented, "I thought everything went well; it was really beautiful."

The traditional annoucement of the prom court was held at 11 pm. Presiding over the evening's activities were Queen Kathleen Starzyk and King Carl Thewes. Other members of the prom court were Laura Holden, Darcy Knopf, Jacquie Eastman, Amy Rose, John Gunyula, Steve Gunyula, Kevin Kober, and Rob Young.

The Class of 1987 left these fitting words to the class of 1986 inside each of the programs:

Another year goes by Another prom is here
To some this brings a joyous smile

To others brings a tear
For four long years you've tread a path
From dawn to setting sun
But now the path gets steeper
And the climb has just begun.
We're very glad to know you
We'll miss you when you've gone.
And to the class of '86
We dedicate our prom.

Hats Off
To The Class Of '86

By Rhonda Smith

The 118th Theodore Roosevelt High School Commencement was held on June 8th at 3 p.m. After two days of gray skies and rain, the skies turned blue, making it possible for commencement to be held in the the stadium.

285 members of the class of 1986, including three foreign exchange students, participated in Commencement.

Student addresses included Francie Sawyer's "Promise Yourself," Jacquie Eastman's "No Gut, No Glory," Dorn Wenninger's "Dreams," and Valedictorian Laura Gilliam's "Go For It! Excellence and our Debt to Roosevelt."

The class of '86 honored faculty members Mr. Kenneth Gessford, Mr. Henry T. Hill, Mr. Robert Lambert, Mr. Glen Ludick, Mr. John Nemec, Mr. Vernon Pees, Mr. William Pollock, and Mrs. Linda Randall.

On hand to congratulate the seniors and hand them their diplomas, while Principal Martin Kane read each graduate's name, were President of the Board of Education Dr. Emilio Ferrara, Vice-President of the Board of Education William G. Wolcott, Board of Education member Virginia P. Harvey, and Superintendent of Schools Donna G. Lightel. New Year Brings Change

by Jennifer Stelmack

On Aug. 28, Roosevelt's atriums and halls were filled once again with students anxious to get back to school. The incredible heat made it hard to believe that summer was indeed coming to an end. Sophomore Jason Frankhouser, who spent his summer near the shores of San Diego, stated, "It was a real letdown because I couldn't surf all day like in the summer."

Other students, however, eagerly returned. Carolyn Darrow commented, "I liked it because we're upperclassmen now, and upperclassmen have more freedom."

Students were greeted with several changes and many new faces. More than fifty new students arrived at RHS, as well as a host of new teachers.

One change this year was the beginning of the missing child policy. The new policy made schools statewide accountable for the whereabouts of each enrolled student every school day. With this program, the schools hoped to inhibit the growth of the number of missing children in Ohio.

The Spirit Rings On!

by Sandy Gilliam

Music! Cheers! People! Spirit! Pep Rallies! Football cheerleading captain Jacki Euard commented on this year's pep assemblies, "They improved from years before because there was more response from students."

One reason for the students' reactions was the contest for the spirit bell at each assembly. The juniors showed themselves to be the most spirited class at all except one pep rally this year.

Some favorite pep rallies from the past returned this year. The burning of the Raven pep rally and the male cheerleaders pep rally are two examples.

Senior Chris Habowski summed up his ideas about pep rallies, "They get the people psyched for the game."

Production Of A Play

by Sandy Gilliam

This fall the Drama Club performed a play by Bel Kaufman called "Up the Down Staircase". The play was about a new teacher's attempts to adjust to an inner-city high school in the mid-60's.

Drama Club members are familiar with the process of producing a play, but perhaps others are not.

The first step is trying out. To try out a student picks a scene to read from the material provided by the directors, then the student and a partner perform the scene for the directors.

After worrying and wondering, the cast list is posted and those who made it rejoice. Drama Club members who did not make it sign up for crews and the work begins.

The cast begins to rehearse after school almost immediately. The first practices are primarily to learn the blocking, placement and motions of the characters, and to memorize the lines. Once the blocking and lines are memorized, the cast starts to polish the play. These rehearsals consist of a run through of the play and notes given by the directors.

While the actors are practicing, the crews are working on getting various aspects of production ready such as collecting the props, organizing costumes, ordering make-up, getting publicity out, hanging lights, and keeping the actors quiet during rehearsals. The light and sound crew had a particularly hard job for "Up the Down Staircase" but Tim Kane and Kirsten Page managed admirably.

According to Mr. Michael McClure, the new assistant director, "They (the crews) did a remarkably good job considering the difficult cues they faced."

Leadership Workshop

. . . Stik With It

by Mary Kay Pickard

Have you ever had a problem with elephants? Do you know what it's like to have elephants following you around everywhere you go?

According to Mr. MacPhearson, leadership workshop guest speaker from Frankfort, Kentucky, everyone has these problems. "Stik With It" was the theme of his speech and elephants were a symbol of things that grow into big things that a person needs to get done that haven't been done.

Mr. MacPhearson made it clear that doing away with these elephants would help a student's organization.

He even went to the extent of using a toy elephant that he threw over his shoulder to symbolize getting the elephants out of your life.

Student leaders attended a different type of workshop than in the past years. Instead of the students breaking into groups they stayed together as a whole and listened to speakers.

Jacquie Eastman, student council president, opened with a short speech of how the leadership workshop was put together.

Mr. Martin Kane, principal, spoke of the school's excellent leadership ability.

Mr. MacPhearson's entire program was on the topics of time management, better grades in time management, planning in time management and organization in time management.

Throughout Mr. MacPhearson's speech he reminded the students of the elephant size problems that follow people around, the result of putting things off.

Cyndi Maxwell, chairperson for the workshop, commented, "The workshop was a great success and I feel many students gained a lot of useful knowledge that will help them throughout life with time management."

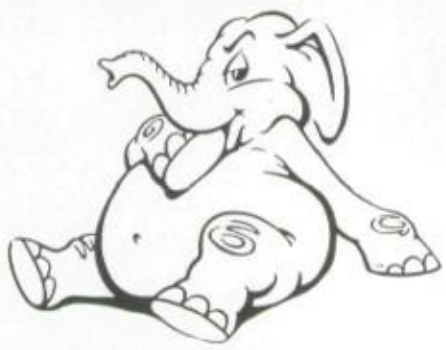
Leadership Workshop



RHS Students Are SLIC

by Cyndi Maxwell

A strong leader has the following qualities: initiative, enthusiasm, integrity, the ability to accept responsibility, and the ability to relate to group members in a positive, motivating way. Inter-Club Council members were striving to possess these qualities.

Student Leaders Inter-Club Council (SLIC) was formed this year with the purpose of bringing the various clubs of the school together. The purpose of the council was to: 1. provide information to help a student improve their leadership skills, 2. to provide leaders with an opportunity to exchange information, and 3. to provide leaders with opportunities to communicate with the RHS administration.

The club meetings were held the second Thursday of every month for a half hour. The format of the monthly meetings consisted of a ten minute presentation on a special topic, ten minutes of sharing between designated organizations, and ten minutes for discussion and concerns. The specific areas the SLIC group focused on were: planning and running a meeting, motivating club members to participate in the organization, effective use of communication skills, planning projects, time management, getting organized, and creating school and class spirit.

"The meetings went well and I feel it's super that all of the clubs in the school were working together for a common goal," commented Melisa Volpe, a student leader.

"The council was a great way for students to share and express ideas," commented Mrs. Emma Owen. "This year's council worked so well we will definitely have another one next year."

Creeps Alive At Night

by Mary Kay Pickard

October 31 to November 2, the halls of the school were filled with the bellowing screams and terrifying screeches of the action taking place inside the locker room.

The Haunted Locker Room was sponsored by the FORArts Club. The club spent two weeks preparing for their performance, which Advisor Ken Gessford, said was "Absolutely fantastic."

A number of scenarios from Female Phantom of the Opera, to a Surgeon with Chainsaws, Various Tunnels of Doom, the Blinding Light to Deafening Sound and many more revived the hearts of the daring visitors.

An anonymous freshman said, "It was spooky!" Sophomore Lori Cisch said, "It was better than the ones around town."

At The Movies: FORArtS

by Mary Kay Pickard

The art club film was put together by the FORArtS Club, (consisting of about 25 members). The FORArtS Club and Mr. Gessford, art instructor, with some aid from Mr. Lehnert, a KSU professor, did a study on non-objective art.

Non-objective art deals with "non-representation" meaning that the artist does not think of representational objects while he is working. It also deals with the sense of perception. For example, the artist might draw how a flower smells instead of how it looks.

The goal of this film was to hopefully educate the public on the subject of non-objective art. It was distributed to universities across the nation and was aired on PBS television (channels 45/49).

The film was started in March and completed in May.

AFS Looks At US Culture

by Mary Kay Pickard

Venturing across the world to visit and explore another country was what the AFS Club was all about.

The general purpose of this activity program was to promote better understanding among people throughout the world through student exchanges and to allow students to pursue their interest in international relations and world understanding.

This year, three AFS students visited Roosevelt: one from Japan, one from the Netherlands and one from Switzerland. These students were active in many areas at Roosevelt.

Kanako Morinaka from Tokyo, Japan was hosted by the Ben Bassham family. She was the Art Club secretary and a member of the girl's basketball team. "RHS has a lot of good classes like graphic arts and drawing and painting. In Japan, we don't have expensive things like graphic machines, art charcoals and pastels. It's really good (here)," said Kanako.

Jacqueline Kenter from Haarlem, Netherlands was hosted by the Charles Conaway family. She was a member of the cross country team, track team and ski club. "The people here are friendly and nice. I also like the photography and art classes," said Jacqueline.

Jacques Widmer from Courrendiem, Switzerland was hosted by the William Heim family. He was a member of the varsity soccer team and was also a member of the ice hockey team. "I like a lot of students, maybe because I play sports and I also like the options because there are many classes to choose," said Jacques.

Students Go Abroad

by Mary Kay Pickard

The summer of '85 was a truly exciting experience for three Roosevelt students. The students, Kelly Reynolds, Nalini Arora and Janet Anderson, each traveled to a different country to experience different cultures and ways of life.

Kelly Reynolds traveled to Moscow and Leningrad (U.S.S.R.) with her father and several students from Cuyahoga Falls High School. Their visit lasted nine days and included a trip to the Kremlin in the Red Square (comparable to the White House). "Everything was different. The people were quiet and shy. They did not drive cars and relied on taxis, streetcars and trolleys," Kelly said.

Nalini Arora visited Denmark with the A.F.S. summer program. She stayed for two months with a host family. She was also able to attend school and said it was very interesting. They had never had an American go to school there before. "Everyone there was more laid back than in the U.S. Also the people were more liberal, for example, they had topless beaches! I had an excellent time," Nalini said.

Janet Anderson traveled to Osaka, Japan with the A.F.S. Club. Her stay lasted for one year. She admitted that the people's attitudes were very different from the U.S. Japanese people bow to each other instead of shaking hands. "The biggest difference was the way people dealt with each other. It took a long time for me to realize that the extreme politeness of the Japanese people was not obsequity, or that their great competitiveness was balanced by willingness to help each other, or that Japanese take the lower position of women for granted. It was differences like these that made the experience challenging," Janet said.

Winter One-Acts . . .

Bring Down The House

by Cyndi Maxwell

"The 1986 Winter One-Acts were a sold-out success," commented Mr. Michael McClure, assistant drama director.

People had to be turned away from both the Friday and Saturday performances because of the great turnout.

The audience was seated on the stage surrounding the actors and actresses during the performance. This created a real challenge for the performers as they tried to stay in character and not be distracted by the audience. The members of each cast handled the pressure fine and were really quite entertaining.

The first of the four plays presented was "Aria De Capo" directed by Kirsten Page and Cara Armstrong. The title means "beginning and ending the same." While watching the play, the audience learned the meaning of the mythical morality play.

"Fortitude," directed by M.R. Harris and Paul Oplinger, described the predicament the lead character Sylvia found herself in as the result of new technology. This play helped people to analyze quality versus quantity of life.

"Lost Victory," directed by Gerry Davies and Jon Keller, showed the anguish one woman put herself and others through as the result of bitterness in her family. Ruling her household as a tyrant, she eventually destroyed the entire family.

The last play, "Murder is Fun," (a mystery comedy) was directed by Richard Anderson. In this play the audience was invited to participate by solving the murder described in the opening scene. The suspects were numerous with money and greed the motives for murder.

All of the plays, with their excitement and variety, provided the audience with a very entertaining evening.

Boosters Share A Dream At The KSU Ballroom

by Cyndi Maxwell

Booster Private was held on March 15, in the Kent State University Ballroom. The theme for the evening was "These Dreams". The pre-dance dinner was catered by Kent State University and included salad, baked apples, roast beef, and lasagna. According to Junior Heather Mosser, "The dinner was really good. Everyone seemed to enjoy it."

The 1986 Booster Court was led by Senior Booster King Tim Swanson. The rest of the Court consisted of Senior king candidates Kevin McCarthy, Tim Dawkins, and Damon Lewis. The junior attendant was Steve Lohman; sophomore attendant was Scott Jaykell; freshman attendant was Kenny Pease.

Instead of the usual band performances this year, a disc jockey provided the music for Booster Private.

Spring Break 86 . . .

by Mary Kay Pickard

Where do students from Roosevelt go on spring break? Florida? Hawaii? Bahamas? Or in Kent?

Every year when spring break comes, high school students rummage through their summer wardrobe looking for bermuda shorts and tank tops and then they swarm to southern beaches.

Senior, Tammy Kaehne vacationed in Georgia. "I had more fun there than I would have had in Florida. It was 80 degrees everyday!" Tammy said.

Then there were the less fortunate students who stayed in Kent. Senior, Mike Olson was asked how he spent his time and he said, "Working on my car." Sophomore, Jennifer Tirrel was also asked how she spent her vacation and she said, "I rode my horse a lot and caught up on my sleep."

Whether you spent your spring break on the beautiful sunny beaches of Florida or you just stayed in Kent and relaxed, the week off sure proved to be enjoyable!

Senior Guest

by Mary Kay Pickard

Many of the seniors attended Senior Guest May 3, 1986, in the school cafeteria. The theme was "Spring Break and Jams," and the students danced to the music provided by Mr. Friezenhangst.

About 100 people attended and were served free pizza and pop.

"It was a fun and wild dance to end the school year with," senior Darcy Knopf said.

by Mary Kay Pickard

The Battle of the Bands took place May 17, 1986 in the school's gymnasium. "The battle wasn't really a battle because there wasn't any 'best' band. We were all the 'best' band. The idea was to spoil the members of each band by giving them the opportunity to show off their talents and get together to have fun!" Junior Mark Smith said.

The bands that were involved in this event were Argus, The Andy Band, Metal Forces, Yarbos, World Cultures and The Twist-Offs. Brian Murphy said, "There was no contest and I thought all the bands were good."

Murder Can Be Fun

by Sandy Gilliam

On April 18 and 19, the Drama Guild presented a murder mystery/ comedy called "Done to Death" by Fred Carmichael. "Done to Death" was about five out-of-date mystery writers collaborating on a television series about murder. It was set on a television set made to look like a spooky house on an isolated island called Vulture's Vault. The plot twisted and turned, and switched back and forth between reality and imagination.

Mrs. Mary Ann Costa directed the play, assisted by Mr. Michael McClure, and M. R. Haris, student director.

"It was neat and nifty, goofy and giddy, wacky and wonderful-as parodies go," was all Ed Anderson had to say.

Joshua Freedman commented of his experience, "'Time, itself, stunned by our performance, stopped- and then spiraled backwards. Dogs, all over America, whined and the lights went out. The ensemble was absolute, all absolute."

Jym Schwartz said, "I loved handing Gerry envelopes, wrapping up cords, changing signs, and carrying on radios. The man, The Hand, The Grip, The Legend."

Juniors Create Heaven

by Cyndi Maxwell

The junior class began its work on the 1986 prom following spring vacation. Mrs. Charleen Race was the junior class advisor. Mrs. Race commented, "It went really well, it gave everyone a chance to put their kindergarten cut-and-paste skills to work."

These were just a few of the many items used to put the 1986 prom, "A Night in Heaven", together: 20,000 mylar stars, 6000 strings of miniature white lights, 120 bottles of glue, 110 bags of cotton, 32 rolls of masking tape, 17 extension cords, and 4 reels of fishing line.

About 60 individuals worked on a regular basis during the spring. The last two days before prom saw a lot of juniors, teachers, and parents doing their share to make the 1986 prom a "heavenly" success.

Senior Girls Luncheon

by Mary Kay Pickard

The Kent Women's Club honored the senior girls at the United Methodist Church in Kent for their 16th annual Senior Girls Luncheon on April 24, 1986. After enjoying many fabulous salads, everyone watched a short fashion show put on by some of Roosevelt's junior girls. Their clothes were furnished by the Kent Fashion Bug.

Senior Hilary Kane was honored with the "Outstanding Teenage Volunteer Award." She said, "I was surprised to be chosen the teen volunteer of the year. The other girls who were nominated were also very deserving. I enjoyed my work at Safety School and throughout the community, and I plan to continue giving my time to help others."

Hands Across America

By Cyndi Maxwell

Millions of volunteers extended hands to the hungry, the homeless and each other on Sunday, May 25, joining Hands Across America. From mountains and plains through pockets of poverty, through the porch of the White House, Americans came out in support of helping the needy in this country.

The line stretched more than 41,000 miles across the land. It went from New York through 16 states, the District of Columbia, 510 towns (including Kent), 2 desserts, over one mountain chain, and rivers to the west coast. For 15 minutes a human chain bridged the land with hands, hearts, and harmony. The three songs that were sung during the 15 minutes were "Hands Across America," "We Are The World" and "America the Beautiful."

Missy Roeger, a participant, commented, "I'm really excited. I feel like I am a part of history!"

It was a time for all Americans, young and old, to stand up togther for a common cause.

A group of volunteers commented, "We really enjoyed being involved in this event because the money was going to help the needy in our own country."

As the last song ended and hands dropped, and people dispersed, everyone felt that they were leaving behind a piece of American History.

Everyone came out for Hands Across America. Even the injured took their part in this event./ The line extended all the way down Mantua St. with volunteers doing their share./ Roosevelt students gather to help fill in the line./ The hands are all up high showing the excitement of the day.

Where Dreams Come True

by Mary Kay Pickard

After "A Night in Heaven," students went home and slipped out of their formals and into something a little easier to dance in. They then returned to the school for After-Prom.

After-Prom lasted from 1 to 3 a.m. The students enjoyed soft drinks and munchies sponsored by the P.T.A. and danced to the music provided by Mr. Friezenhangst.

The 1986 Prom and After-Prom was a big success. Senior, Tedi Lauck said, "I had a great time and it will be something I'll always remember."

Senior Citizens

"Trip The Light Fantastic"

by Sandy Gilliam

On Sunday, May 11, over 600 Senior Citizens attended a dance in the Roosevelt gymnasium. The sixth annual Senior Citizens Prom was attended by Senior Citizens from across Portage County. Admission was free and transportation was provided for those without a means of getting to the dance.

Nancy Hansford, mayor of Kent, presided as the Master of Ceremonies. Door prizes were provided by many area businesses and were awarded throughout the dance. A sing-along by Norma Atwood and Ruth Wood, gospel singing by Joshua Brown, dancing music by the Harry Gilcrest Band, and music by the Ravenna Community Choir Mixed Quartet were the entertainment for the dance.

Donna Byttner, of Boebinger Realty, was the chairperson for this event. Her volunteers and she were responsible for getting donations for the buffet meal and door prizes, and generally organizing the entire dance.

Dolls, Baby Dolls, Guys, Swing Choir, and Chamber Choir added to the fun with their ensemble numbers. Solo numbers were performed by: Molly Mohan, Ellen Hogan, and Rachel Schwartz; Richard Anderson; Tonya Barrett and Brad Bennett; Jenny Jones; and Missy Roeger and Lauren Hudak.

Jazz Ensemble provided a nice break with songs like "Spain", "The Wind Machine", and "Say You, Say Me".

Choir Director, Mrs. Nancy Smith said of this year's concert, "It was one of the best we've ever had. It had the highest degree of student participation."

Mike Homula commented, "Pops was an evening of fun for the whole family and the percussion section was excellence."

Senior Class . . . Bids Farewell

by Cyndi Maxwell

The last day for seniors was both a joyous time and a sad time. While the excitement of leaving high school and the confined atmosphere was joyous, the thought of leaving behind friends, Prom, football games, and other precious high school memories was saddening.

No matter what road was chosen in life and no matter how seniors felt on their last day, they looked forward to the challenge. The class of 1986 had a successful year and the Rough Rider Staff wishes them continued success in their futures.

Academics

Academics Improving

Although Roosevelt academics had been rated excellent (see pg. 58), Principal Martin Kane felt that they could be improved.

The strengths of Roosevelt's academics were many. One strength that Mr. Kane felt was important was the academic climate at Roosevelt. The halls were kept quiet so it was easier for students to study. Another important strength was that the school offers a large variety of classes, not just college preparatory courses. Two more strong points of Roosevelt's academics were the stability of the faculty and the small classes.

The five academic areas were English, foreign language, science, mathematics, and social studies. The average class size for English was 20.3 students; for foreign language, 20.7 students; for science, 23.02 students; for mathematics, 21.5 students; and for social studies, 23.5 students.

Mr. Kane felt that the main improvement that needs to be made is to open more challenges to the brighter students. To work towards this goal the school was trying to get more Advanced Placement classes. Programs were also being set up for non-college bound non- vocational students.

Excellence Award

by Mary Kay Pickard

On October 1, 1985, Mr. Martin Kane, principal, Mr. William Pollock, English teacher, and Mrs. Virginia Harvey, Board of Education president, went to Washington D.C. to participate in the award ceremonies designed to identify the best schools in the U.S.

Each school was given a 20-page application to complete and return. Professional evaluators than read and evaluated each school on its characteristics. They voted "yes" if the school qualified or "no" if the school did not qualify. The evaluators then reviewed the application to see that all 14 characteristics had been met. Some of the characteristics were:

1. Positive relationship within the school.
2. High expectations of the students.
3. Order and decorum within the school.
4. Rewards and incentives for the students.

Kent Roosevelt was chosen as one of the top high schools in the U.S., meeting all 14 characteristics.

Mr. Martin Kane commented, "The RHS Award was the most significant award any school could receive. It was like scheduling Roosevelt to play Cincinnati Moeller in ten consecutive games and have Roosevelt come up undefeated".

Mr. Bill Pollock, English department head, stated, "I am sure the greatest single cause of Roosevelt's receiving the national award for "Excellence In Education" is the community support for its schools. When parents care about education, all employees of the school system must respond to this parental interest in the schools."

But Mr. Pollock added, "though Roosevelt has been honored for academic excellence, all teachers and administrators should continue to evaluate and to revise all aspects of learning to meet student needs.

NHS Lights Up Evening

by Cyndi Maxwell

On November 26, the 1985 National Honor Society inducted its new members.

The featured guest speaker, Miss Sayoko Moroi, a former Roosevelt student and NHS member, presented her speech "Back to the Future".

After numerous speakers, the officers of NHS lit four candles which signify the qualities of NHS members: Scholarship, Character, Leadership, and Service.

After a candlelighting ceremony, each new member recited the NHS pledge which reads as follows: "I pledge myself to uphold the high purpose of the National Honor Society to which I have been elected, striving in every way by word and deed to make its ideals the ideals of my school and of my life."

At the conclusion of the program, new NHS members, their friends, and families were treated to a reception by the Roosevelt PTA.

Class Of '86 Takes Honors

by Cyndi Maxwell

The senior honors assembly took place on May 29, 1986. Many seniors were awarded with honors.

The highlight of the assembly was when the senior class presented Principal Martin Kane with a gift. When Mr. Kane opened the box he found a bright orange and yellow pair of Jam shorts to wear. The teaching staff at RHS really looked forward to seeing Mr. Kane wear these shorts to the staff brunch that was held on the last day of school.

Note: a listing of honors appears on p. 61.

Computers At Roosevelt

by Janet Head

On Saturday, March 1 at 8:54 p.m., Junior David Koo became the first Roosevelt student to successfully send his English paper to Mr. Henry Hill by computer modem. David called his English teacher at home on the telephone to coordinate the two IBM computer systems, and after working out a few technical problems, he transmitted the data bank by the name of "Flies. doc" to Mr. Hill's system in about four minutes. The assignment that was sent over the modem consisted of a critique, an abstract, a list of main characters, an objective quiz with a key, and three essay questions, all about "Lord of the Flies," a book David had read as part of an English Lit. unit.

Al Mares had made an earlier attempt to send a paper to Mr. Hill through the use of a data bank, but he could not get it configured properly and resorted to typing the information across.

Roosevelt experienced another advancement in computer application in the Vocational Department. CAD (computer assisted drafting) and CAM (computer assisted machining) were integrated into electronics, drafting, and machine trades classes.

The CAD program used IBM XT's with 640K memories and 10 megabite hard disk drives to draw intricate drawings of two and three dimensions. These drawings could be stored or dumped to a six-color-plotter to be reproduced on paper.

The CAM program worked on combining the drawings from CAD with computers to run machines to make the newly designed parts. Systems like these were currently being used in the business world and learning these skills was a great help to graduating students.

Mr. Hill and Mr. Thomas Tercek both expressed their hope that someday a school bulletin could be set up so that students could use computers to gain information on subject areas in classes that they had trouble understanding.

With many computer advancements this year, teachers and students found that computers can make their work a little easier.

Teachers Remember When . . .

Everyone has had an embarrassing moment. Teachers are no exception. Even though most kids think teachers are far from normal, after hearing some of these faculty members' embarrassing situations, there may be cause for reconsideration. But then again, maybe not:

Mrs. Hollinger - "I remember my most embarrassing moment. It was when the school was being worked on. There was mud everywhere and some of the workers were cleaning the mud up with some sort of vacuum cleaner. I was walking and fell, over the vacuum cord."

Mr. Dzeda - "It was before I came here to teach. I was giving a lecture and was so wrapped up in it that I didn't notice a girl had passed out and had fallen on the floor. The class had to interrupt my lecture before I noticed."

Mrs. Hennen - "When I use words and the kids interpret them differently from what I mean."

Mr. Hnath - "I was student teaching and I had a brand new suit on. I didn't realize that the zipper was down the whole time I was teaching."

Mrs. Hanna- "It was my first year of teaching. I was having a snowball fight with one of my students and just as I threw one, the principal walked in. I wasn't embarrassed, I was humiliated!"

Subs

They Made Us Appreciate Our Teachers

by Janet Head

Subs!

Everyone had to deal with them at some time. Not the ones you could get at the Franklin Square Deli for $1.65 and up, but the ones who shut the door the second the bell rang, insisted that you did the work that was assigned, and in general, ruled their newly acquired classes with an iron grip.

They ranged from short, plump, and matronly to tall and lanky, often with a love for antagonizing students. Conjuring up dislike when they separated the seats of talkative friends, or commanding that not a decibel of sound be emitted during an extremely boring filmstrip about the differences between rock layers in Wyoming, substitute teachers were rarely spared the retaliation of riled up students. At times, there was more enthusiasm involved in tricking a sub than was displayed by all the cheerleaders put together at a pep rally in the gym.

Of course, not all subs had this effect, and they were all doing their best to fulfill their jobs, but they helped students to realize that it was difficult to replace the great staff Roosevelt had.

Wills . . .

by Sue FaFrak

Senior wills printed by the Colonel had been a tradition at Roosevelt for several years. They were a way for seniors to get the last word in, to complete the final chapter of their high school year, to leave a final statement in ink.

This year, seniors were asked what they would leave their teachers or favorite faculty members as a sort of last word before departing Roosevelt. This is what some of them had to say:

"I leave Mr. Ludick a pass for all the days I've missed." - Melissa McBride

"To Mrs. Barley, I leave her own little adventure in Wonderland." - Mickey Corcoran

"I leave Mr. McClure an excellent yearbook organization editor." - Eileen Balthis

"To Herr E. I leave fondue parties and German rum balls." - Patty Hendershot

Art At R.H.S.

by Patty Hendershot

Dave Connolly had always wanted to draw but he never believed in his own ability. Then Phil Stokes convinced him to join the art program at R.H.S.. His whole life changed because he took advantage of the "individualism" and expressionalistic" art offered by the R.H.S. art department.

Students were taught that when drawing a picture, it doesn't have to look exactly like the object, it may be abstract.

The art department offered a wide variety of classes ranging from Jewelry & Metals to Fiber & Fabrics.

Monitors Walk The Halls

by Lori Burns

One of the necessary, but not always enjoyed tasks, that was required of teachers was hall duty. Between classes, teachers made sure that things were going smoothly in the hallways and made sure that there was no smoking in the restrooms.

During lunch, teachers kept the traffic down on the stairs and in the hallways while classes were taking place. While they were fulfilling their daily duties, they had much time to reflect.

Mrs. Hennen, a fourth period monitor, remarked, "I look at all the different outfits that the girls wear. I know all the modern trends." She also added, "I think about how immature the freshman are every year." Mr. Meduri said, "I wonder how much time I have left on duty."

While hall duty may not have been a favorite task, it served its purpose, because most teachers only had to deal with a few students, since the majority were where they were supposed to be.

Freshmen

Freshmen Adjust To RHS

For freshmen, attending a high school for the first time is a new experience. Different from a middle school, Roosevelt offers more freedom and responsibility and may take a while to get used to. Some of the changes include being able to choose your own classes, getting bigger lockers, and having a wider variety of sports, clubs, and organizations to take part in.

This year's freshmen were off to a good start and showed their enthusiasm by participating in many activities and by winning the spirit bell at the Springfield pep assembly.

Freshmen were asked what they liked about Roosevelt:

"It's a lot bigger and the teachers are better." - Kati Snowberger
"Everybody is nice and some guys are really cute." - Sonya Richburg
"The girls." - Chris Dee and Jason Harris
"Cheerleading is fun and they have lots of activities. It's big and some of the teachers are nice. I like the pep rallies too." - Tracey Jones
"I like their assemblies and pep rallies better." - Galen Goss
"There are so many different sports." - Pete Sharp

Freshmen Gain Spirit

by Lori Burns

The Freshman Class spent the year working hard to raise money for prom. They were involved in the winter candy sale—selling sprees and sweettarts, and began planning for car washes in the spring. They also participated in a brochure sale with ideal gifts for Mother's Day and Father's Day in the spring.

The class also was working on gaining more spirit and unity, and planned a class trip to Geauga Lake.

Mrs. Dunlap, freshman class advisor, said that the class was "a very conscientious group. After winning the spirit bell from the Juniors in the fall, they were very enthusiastic and interested in bringing more spirit and unity into their class."

Are You A Good Friend?

by Patty Hendershot

There are many things that can affect a friendship, and the biggest one is a person's personality. There are little things like the way we dress, our interests, the music that we listen to, and our environment that also affect a friendship.

Here is a little quiz so you can find out what kind of a friend you are:

1. When your friend does not have lunch money, you:
a) give him/ her your life savings.
b) share your lunch.
c) even though you have money, you pretend that you do not have any.

2. When your friend has a problem and needs your help, you:
a) help them.
b) tell them that you have no experience with the situation.
c) ignore them.

3. When another person says something bad about one of your friends, you:
a) stick up for him/ her.
b) argue with him and tell him that he is wrong.
c) punch him in the face.

4. When a freshman comes up to you and asks you for directions to his class, you:
a) give him the right directions.
b) give him the right directions, but first take him all over the building.
c) direct him down to the vocational wing.

Now you can total up your points. A's are worth 5 points, B's are worth 3 points, and C's are worth 1 point.

'We Want To Have Fun!'

by Sue Fafrak

All work and no play give sophomores a dull day. So what do they do to chase the blues away? No, they do not play in the rain and no, they do not watch old reruns of "Leave It To Beaver." School cannot always be fun and games, so this is what some sophomores said they do for fun:

"Go our with my friends," - Brian Kelly

"Go down to J.B.'s and listen to the Twist Offs." - Karl Walter and Dan Marek

"Study diligently and go on a lot of trips." - Melissa Huth

"Join sports." - anonymous

"Vacation a lot." - Chuck Yannis

"Search my soul." - Kelly Mason

"Sit and ponder the true meaning of all that surrounds the outstanding visions of the naked city." - anonymous

Sophomores Raise Money For Prom

by Janet Head

"We may not have to pay class dues!" By the end of their sophomore year, the class of '88 had collected most of the money it needed for prom, unlike most classes Roosevelt had seen over the years.

Although only a small majority worked to raise the money, according to Advisor Mrs. Kathy Repinski, the members of this group were very enthusiastic and hardworking. They sold ornaments, candles, and decorations early in the year during their Christmas sale and also joined the masses of other candy salesman, armed with Reese's Peanut Butter Cups and M&M's in the fall and with M&M's again in the spring.

The class officers met each month along with a class advisory committee and the advisors to discuss and plan upcoming events. The advisory committee was made up of students who did not hold office, but wanted to be a part of meetings and decisions.

The group was intending to take another class trip to Geauga Lake because they had enjoyed going there the previous year.

Mrs. Judy Price, also an advisor, commented, "We have a core group of kids who participate and I enjoy working with them. We've seen a lot of growth as they went from freshmen to sophomores and we hope that by the time that they're seniors, they'll have developed into good leaders."

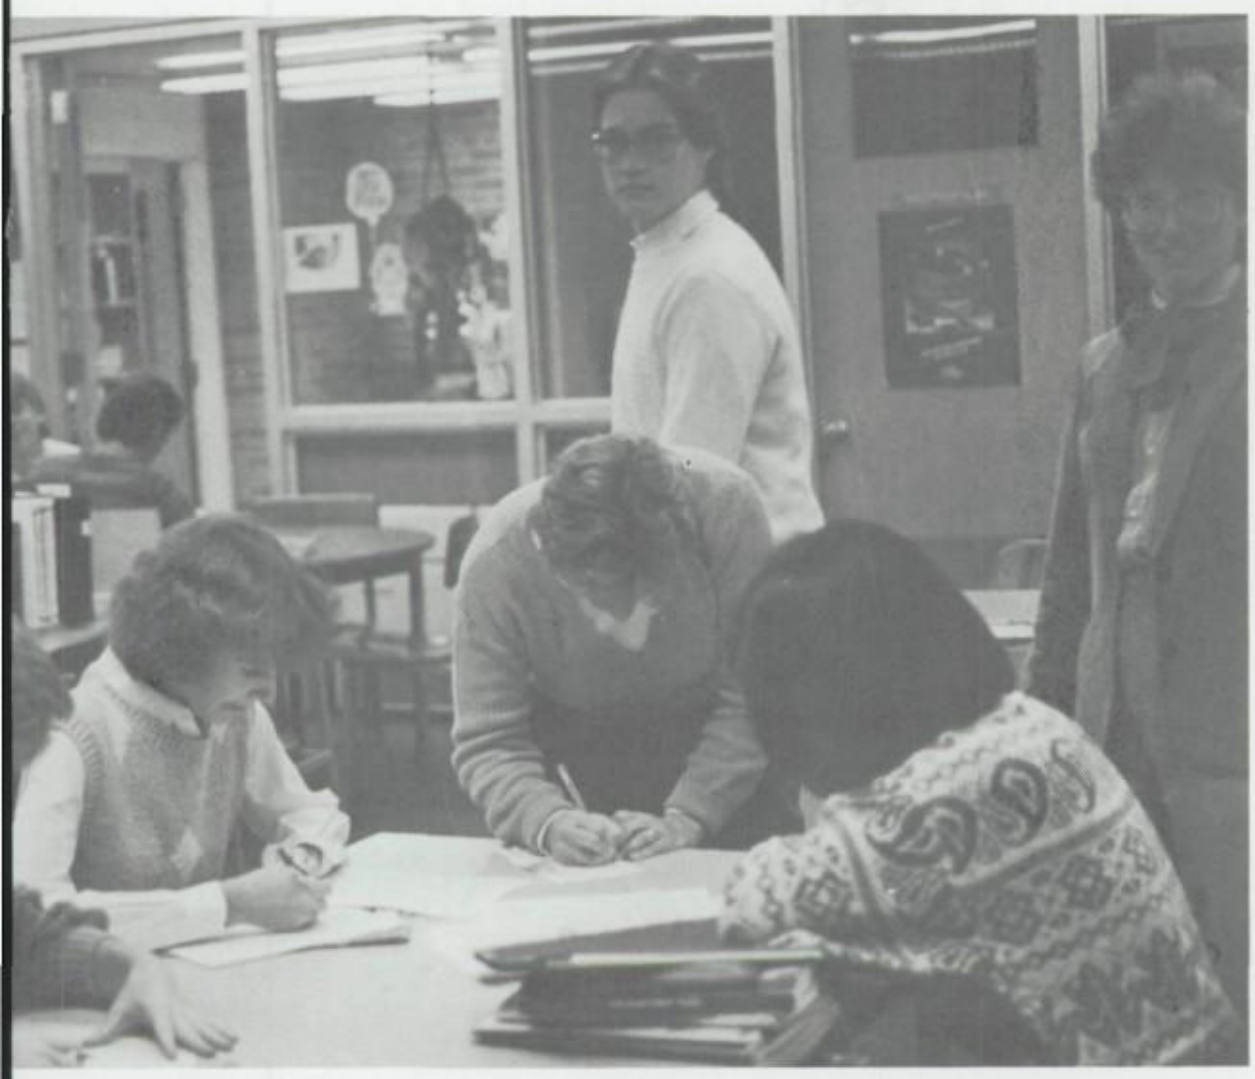
Wishes . . .



by Sue Fafrak

At one time or another, everybody wishes that some of his dreams could be fulfilled. But, unfortunately, not everyone has a genie to grant him his wishes, so most of them go unanswered. If you had one wish, what would it be?

Where's Your Homework?

by Patty Hendershot

Everyone has a homework excuse that he uses and tries to get away with. Teachers have heard them all from "I left it at home" to "My dog ate it." Even though teachers do not believe the excuses, students still feel that they must give a reason for not doing their homework. Once in a while the students are telling the truth, but most of the time they are afraid to admit that they did not do it.

Here are some excuses that sophomores use for not doing their homework:

"I do not remember your assigning it." Camille Smith

"I didn't feel like doing it." Michele Ridenour

Sophomores: Stuck In The Middle

Often sophomores are forgotten. The excitement of being a freshman and experiencing the first year of high school has dwindled, but the anticipation of graduation has not yet arrived. So where do sophomores stand, being half way through "the best years"?

Sophomores' lives are not so easy. Their days might start out as any other kids', but there are many things that divide the line between being a sophomore and being an upperclassman.

The morning begins with that dreaded sound: the alarm clock. Opening one eye to stare at the clock, you decide you had better get it over with. You roll out of bed and scramble to the bathroom, only to find out the rest of the family has decided to use all of the hot water. At least you will have no trouble waking up (cold water is refreshing!), but so far the day does not look very promising.

After spending an hour in front of the mirror, it is time to hit the road. Staring out the window, horrified at the rain pouring down, you wish for the hundredth time that you were old enough to get your license and drive to school. You sigh and prepare yourself to get wet.

The day seems to run pretty smoothly, except for the big health test you forgot to study for. "Oh well," you tell yourself, "it's only one test. I'll study next time." So, school still has some "fresh" challenges!

Finally you are sitting in your last class. You lean back and glance at the clock, waiting for the hands to move. What seems like three hours later, the bell rings and you can finally go home.

You maneuver your way through the hall, growling at the "little freshmen" who get in your way. (Who wants to remember that you were one once?)

As you reach the front doors and step out, it sounds as if the world is filled with the singing of angels. The sky is clear, the rain that drenched you that morning has lifted. As you walk home, you catch yourself singing your favorite song, the desire of having your own car dwindling with every step. You are not even thinking about tomorrow when you will have to do it all over again. See! Being a sophomore is not all that bad, but high school still holds a challenge for sophomores, even with the first year of high school hysteria behind you.

Upper left, clockwise: Sara Shumar reveals her phobia of cameras and tries to hide./ Mike Clark pauses to think about what he has just read./ Robyn Abbott smiles proudly at the thought of her excuse to get out of class./ Wayne Lyons is in no hurry to go back to his classroom and takes his time to wander through the halls.

Juniors Have Spirit!

by Patty Hendershot

The Junior class' biggest activity of the year was sponsoring the Senior Prom. They were short of money so they had several fund raisers. They sold pennants at the football games, mums for Homecoming, locker shelves and mirrors. Because the class only had half of the money it needed for Prom, class dues of ten dollars were expected from each Junior. The student had to pay their dues in order to attend the Prom. They were also given a ballot to vote for the theme when they payed.

The theme that was picked for the Prom, was "Heaven." President Tami Leffel said, "We're hoping for the best Prom ever and a lot of class participation and spirit."

As a whole, the Juniors had a great deal of class spirit. At the pep-rallies they won the school spirit bell every time except at the last rally when the bell was won by the Freshman class.

Activities were planned throughout the school year by President Tami Leffel, Vice-President Jenny Arthur, Secretary Jenny Goodhart and Treasurer Ellen Hogan.

Left to right: Senior Mary Meduri, Anna Feinburg, and Ellen Hogan attend the leadership workshop on time management in the auditorium./ Becky Dietz tries to grow pens out of her ears and mouth./ After seeing so many exhibits of the Kent State college fair, Heather Silverberg finds it difficult to decide which school to pick./ Junior Class Officers Jenni Goodhart, Tami Leffel, Jenny Arthur, and Ellen Hogan look at Prom decoration ideas.

Roosevelt Juniors Plan Their Futures

by Lori Burns

During the year, many juniors thought about what career fields they wanted to go into and about some of the things they would like to do after graduation.

Some students were considering careers in business. Betsy Crapo wanted to be an executive secretary. Chad Schraibman said, "I want to become an extremely successful businessman." Chris DeMichael felt he would "like to go into business," while Brian Hollering wanted to be an "accountant." Frank Byrne said, "I want to go into business and own GM, or else become a teacher."

Other students were also interested in teaching. Mike Sisson would have liked to be a Latin teacher, and Lenny Lenzo said, "I want to be a Spanish teacher or a bookie." Eugene Kadish wanted to be "a library aid, because you don't have to graduate from college to be one."

Tim Abell said he would like to be a sports photographer. Lisa Mehlmann commented "I want to be a veterinarian." "I might join the army," remarked Brett Hill.

Some students are not sure of what they want to do yet. Evan Auld said he is "uncertain" of his future plans. Heather Streltzer exclaimed "I want to be like Jacques Cousteau and live with the monkeys!"

Other juniors had different plans. Rob Jenkins wanted to "move to Alaska and work on the pipeline with Cara Armstrong." Dante Geldof said, "I want to move to New York City and buy tons of stock in sewer systems." "I want to live off the fat of the land," was Greg Schidlowski's reply. Samantha Garrison wished to "move to Cape Cod and become a millionaire." Perry Lowe hoped to "go to France and hitchhike across Europe."

A Good Season!

by Chris Chizmar

The 1985 Rough Rider football team posted an impressive record of eight wins and two losses. Wins against arch-rivals Ravenna and Stow were high points of the season. Another high point was an impressive win over Springfield by a score of 37-6 in the homecoming game on October 26.

A last second loss to Hudson in the third game of the season showed the true character of the football team as they went on to win six of their last seven games. The only other loss was to Metro Champion Nordonia.

The team finished second in the Metro league standings with a 5-1 record.

Seniors Willi Jones, Harold Brown, Geoff Pytel, Wes Murphy and Bob Neff were given All-Metro honors. Senior Wes Murphy also received All-District honors.

Senior Willi Jones led the Metro in rushing as he set a new school record with over 1200 yards rushing in one year.

Senior Bob Neff led the team in tackles with 100.

Senior Jim Bartula said, "It was a good feeling to have one of the top four records in Roosevelt history."

Senior Doug Flinn commented, "Although it was very disappointing losing to Hudson and not making the playoffs, the season as a whole was very successful and satisfying."

Field Hockey Has 'Rememberable' Year!

by Chris Chizmar

The 1985 Rough Rider Field Hockey team finished the season with five wins, eight losses, and one tie. The team also finished fourth in the conference.

Senior Laura Pees was the leading scorer for the team and she also was elected to the first team field hockey team. Laura received the team award for most valuable offensive player. Other award winners were Senior Laura Holden for most valuable defensive player and the most improved player award went to Senior Amy Foutty.

Coach Deb Rutzky said, "The team found the competition was stiffer than in the past years. However, they worked as a team unit as they maintained interest and enthusiasm throughout the season, despite some close and disappointing losses."

Senior Val Palumbo commented, "Our team was one of the closest teams ever because there were so many seniors on the Squad. We all knew that this would be our last year together, so we all tried to make it the best year ever. I wish our season could have gone further but the memories of the 1985 team will be remembered for a very long time."

Senior Danielle Davis stated that, "Although we didn't achieve all of our goals, we had a great team that worked together."

Cross Country Improves

by Heather Mossser

The Boys' Cross Country team finished up their tough season with a record of 6-7. The girls' team showed their outstanding ability with a final record of 7-2.

Under the guidance of Coach Lucas, each team did an impressive job. The boys finished ninth in District Championships and the girls placed eighth in the State.

Seven of the varsity girls competed: Jacquie Eastman, Francie Sawyer, Susan Louis, Kya Herring, Donya Blankenship, Deanna Roach, and Heather Streltzer.

State qualifier Francie Sawyer commented, "I was happy last year when Jacquie and I went to state, but it was more meaningful this year to have the whole team there!"

Kay Chesnut, the only runner to obtain a 3 year award, was captain of the team. She summed up her feelings by saying, "This past season was really great. We had a lot of fun, worked hard, and it finally paid off. It's a season I won't soon forget."

Overall the team's leading scorer was Sophomore Greg Hartzler.

Seven seniors will be leaving the team. Returning next year will be 19 runners, including 12 lettermen.

Returning runner, Junior Greg Schidlowski, expressed his hopes by saying, "The season left a lot to be desired, but I'm sure that next year's team will be more successful."

A Strong Finish!

by Chris Chizmar

The 1985 Rough Rider Golf team finished a very respectable season with 17 wins, eight losses and one tie. The team finished second to Cuyahoga Falls in the Metro Championship race. The team also posted a sixth place finish in the 10th Annual Rough Rider Tri-State Invitational.

The highlight of the season for Roosevelt's golf program would have to be the play of Senior Steve Black. Steve, who was the captain of the golf team, won the Metro Championship in individual play and he finished fifth in District play. Steve then went to Regionals and finished fifth out of 108 contestants. After Regionals, Steve finished sixteenth out of 45 golfers.

Although the team did not win the Metro, the team did have two players selected for the All-Metro squad. Senior Steve Black and Senior Dave Murray were selected for the team.

Senior Dave Murray ended the season with the lowest average in the league with a 39.7 average, thereby receiving All-Metro honors.

The team consisted of Seniors Steve Black (Captain), Dave Murray, Brian McCombs and Juniors Paul Amodio, Perry Lowe, Randy Rinaldi and Dan Schmitz.

Senior Dave Murray commented, "Although it was very disappointing losing the Metro title this year, the team will come back strong next year."

On the same tone Senior Steve Black said, "Basically from the standpoint of the Rough Rider tradition of golf, the season was disappointing after winning the Metro 11 out of the 15 years, and losing it this year."

To sum the season up, Senior Brian McCombs stated, "The inexperience of the team in Metro play hurt us at the beginning of the year, but in the second half of the season the team played very well as we gained some experience."

> ". . . the team will come back strong next year."

Girls Rebuild!

by Mary Rog

The 1985 Girls' Volleyball team didn't have as successful of a season as they had hoped for. They ended up with a disappointing record of 6-16.

Coach Ferlito said, "Next year will be a season to rebuild."

The team was led by Senior Co-captains Marlo Gdovin and Julie Payne. Marlo Gdovin was named most valuable player of the team and also made honorable mention All-Metro for the second year in a row.

Juniors Cyndi Maxwell and Mary Rog also received honorable mention All-Metro.

Other members of the team consisted of Juniors Vanessa Feezel and Kris Martin. There were only two underclassmen on the squad and they were Sophomores Marcia Hardy and Jennifer Tirrell.

Senior Captain Marlo Gdovin said, "The season was one of growth. With a smaller team, there was more unity between the junior varsity and varsity squads."

The season highlights for the Rough Rider girls were their wins against Ravenna and Normandy.

Since the team is only losing two seniors, Coach Ferlito commented, "There will be good potential for next year and the incoming class looks good."

Soccer Team Has A Slow Start

by Mary Rog

The 1985 Boys' Soccer team ended their season with a record of five wins, twelve losses and two ties. The team finished fifth in the Metro and made it to the Sectional Semi-Finals.

Coach Todd Brenn stated, "Our program started off very well and then the bottom dropped out and we couldn't seem to play for a seven-game stretch. We played well parts of games, but we were not putting two halves together. We finished strongly and showed a lot of promise with our young players."

The team was led by Senior Co-captains Damon Lewis and Russel Fish. The most valuable player award went to Junior Rich Huffnagle, who also made the All-Metro and second team All-District. Seniors Tim Swanson and Damon Lewis made the All-Metro team and they were on the honorable mention All-District squad. Along with these honors they were also chosen to play in the All-Star game. Senior Tim Swanson was also leading scorer in the team's conference.

"We had a pretty inconsistent season and we didn't play up to our potential, but in the State Tournament we finally put it together and made it to the Sectional Semi-Finals losing by one goal to Tallmadge," commented Senior Captain Damon Lewis.

Girls Have Long Season!

by Heather Mosser

The girls' tennis team put forward a lot of effort to finish off a tough season with a final record of 9-12.

The team was led by Captain Diane Rankin, who summed up their season by stating, "Overall I feel it was a much improved season as compared to last year and I feel our record doesn't give us the full credit we deserve."

The team had two new coaches this year. The varsity coach was Ms. Joan Buemi, and the junior varsity coach was Mr. Bill Pollock.

"I enjoyed this year very much," stated Coach Buemi. "My objectives were for each player to improve, play hard and win; but most of all to enjoy the game of tennis."

The team will be losing nine seniors this year, including their Captain and Co-Captain.

The Co-Captain, Elaine Zalewski, was the only player on the team to win a four-year award.

There will be four players returning next year, including top scorer Freshman Mindy Rasalan, and Junior Jenny Arthur.

Jenny Arthur explained her plans for next season: "Many of the matches we lost were very close and that helped us realize what kind of work we will have to do next year to win those matches."

by Chris Chizmar

The 1985-86 Rough Rider Wrestling team finished the season with a record of five wins and six losses. The team also posted a fourth place finish in the Kent Quad, a sixth place finish in the Hudson Tournament, and a seventeenth place finish in the Medina Tournament.

A Long Season . . .

by Chris Chizmar

The 1986 Kent Roosevelt Rough Rider hockey team finished a very disappointing season with a loss to Padua in the state hockey tournament. The team posted seven wins and 21 losses during the long hockey season.

Junior Rich Huffnagle was the leading scorer for the team and Senior Todd Heim was elected to play in the Senior All-Star game.

Senior Jacques Widmer said, "The hockey team was full of talent; but, the team was never able to play together as one unit and this resulted in the poor record we had."

Senior Dorn Wenninger also said, "We didn't play like a team throughout the regular season; but, when the tournaments came, we started playing like a team and posted three post-season victories."

Senior Dave Rasalan summed the season up when he said, "It was a very rough, long, and trying season for all the people on the team."

The hockey team has high expectations for next year because the team will only lose seven seniors this year. The season also was a great learning experience for the underclassmen on the team.

Coach Hovey said his objectives for next year are "to bring back pride and honor to Roosevelt hockey, make sure the kids have fun playing hockey but at the same time improve the team's record."

Riders Finish Fourth!

by Chris Chizmar

The 1986 Rough Rider Baseball team finished their season with a record of 11 wins and 15 losses. The disappointing aspect of the season was the fact that five of the Rider's losses in Metro League games were by a combined total of six runs.

Senior Brian McCombs commented about the season when he said, "This year's record wasn't as good as it could have been, but the season overall was enjoyable. The final victory against Tallmadge made the season."

Sophomore Cole Preston was impressive as he led the team in wins with a record of five wins and seven losses. Junior Mike Lewis led the team with a 2.93 E.R.A.

Senior Kevin Kober, Sophomore Arnet Noble, and Senior Doug Flinn were selected to be on the All-Metro team. Junior Andy Knapp was selected as an alternate for the All-Metro game.

Senior Kevin Kober had an outstanding season with a .444 batting average and 24 R.B.I.'s. Sophomore Arnet Noble also had a good season with a .385 batting average and 31 R.B.I.'s.

The highlight of the Rider's season would have to be the accomplishment of Senior Doug Flinn. Doug was selected as the team's M.V.P. and rightfully so as Doug won All-Metro and All-State honors. Doug led the Metro with a .514 batting average, with 44 runs batted in, and with seven home runs in only 26 games. Doug is only the second player in Roosevelt history to be given All-State recognition.

Doug Flinn gave his feelings on the season when he said, "The baseball program at Roosevelt has improved dramatically in the four years I have been here. This year was especially good because we played the most games ever. For me, the season was very satisfying and I had a great time. My only disappointments were the one run losses in the Metro games."

A Good Year For Tennis

by Mary Rog

The 1986 Boys' Tennis team finished their season with a record of ten wins and six losses. They placed second in the Metro Championship, losing by one point to Cuyahoga Falls.

Coach Pfeiffer said, "We were second in the Metro which really didn't satisfy us, but we have a lot of players coming up next year and it looks good."

Senior Captain Tom Kluth and Junior Victor Smith made First Team All-Metro in doubles. Also making All-Metro First team was Junior Mark Riccio in singles. Junior Dave Roark received Honorable Mention All-Metro in singles.

"I think that this year our tennis team did pretty well. Our record of ten and six wasn't outstanding, but we had to play some pretty tough teams. Next year we will only lose one person, my doublers partner Tom, so we should do better and definitely regain our Metro title," said Vic Smith.

Returning lettermen, include Juniors Smith, Riccio and Roark along with Juniors John Heimlick and Ki-Hon Lin, and Freshmen Dave Rosenberg and William Wolford.

Mark Riccio said, "I think that the team did very well this year considering five of our seven players were playing varsity for the first time. Although it was disappointing to lose the Metro Championships to Cuyahoga Falls by one point, we should have no trouble bringing the Metro back to Kent next year."

> "We should have no trouble bringing the Metro back to Kent next year."

Attitudes Create Style

Freshmen Kathy Kovalak and Lynn Bennett flash their Riderette smiles while the Riderettes perform at an R.H.S. pep rally.

The 1985 Riderettes began their season in April with tryout practices. Tryouts consisted of three categories: A marching drill, a dance, and a flag routine. The top 32 girls and two alternates were selected in May. Practices in June and a two-day clinic in August prepared the girls for Band Camp in Pennsylvania at Edinboro University. Camp lasted five days, August 11-16.

Once school started, the Riderettes continued to practice with the band every day during the lunch periods, after school on Tuesdays, and Thursday evenings. Mrs. Karen Jessie, auxilary choreographer, gave a reason for this amount of practice with the band by explaining, "The Riderettes are a part of every drill and show, and are considered to be full-time members."

The addition of hoops, swing flags, streamers, and butterfly wings to the Riderettes' equipment helped create a new look for 1985. The Riderettes performed in the R.H.S. Marching Band Show, the Nordonia Band Show, the Cuyhoga Falls Band Show, and at ten Rough Rider football games. On Sunday, November 17, they performed at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium for the NFL Cleveland vs. Buffalo halftime show.

Mrs. Jessie described the girls' attitudes with the statement, "This season, the leaders set the tone for hard work, cooperation, and enthusiasm. The girls knew what they were in for during tryouts, and although they were recognized for it, the work was hard."

Bands Receive 'Ones'

by Tammy Hayden

Instrumental bands received straight ones at districts this year. They proved themselves worthy of ones in both Wind Symphony and Concert Band. They also received a one in sight reading. The honor of straight ones was given to only one other school.

Districts was not the only place where Kent students excelled in music. A solo and ensemble contest was held at Kent State on February 16. In all, there were sixty-eight superior ratings and twenty-eight excellent ratings.

Senior Gwen Abell said, "We are working hard to go to state." But Junior Lisa Clement said band is also a place to have a good time.

Freshman Cheerleaders Keep Busy

Freshman Cheerleaders kept busy by trying out last May and going to a camp at Kenyon College outside of Mt. Vernon. They sold programs at all of the home football games to help out the Rough Rider Association. They also held a dance in November to buy warm-ups for themselves. They were responsible for organizing all the pep rallies too. They cheered for seven football games, four basketball games, and they participated in a tournament at Barberton.

This year cheerleading captains were Sonya Richburg and Torri Whitfield for football. Captains for basketball were Torri Whitfield and Erin Defren.

Boosters Lift Spirits

by Lisa Sapp

At the end of the year, if a Booster had gained enough points, she was able to attend Booster Private, a formal dance held at the Kent State Student Center. Points could be gained by attending school events and participating in Booster activities.

Booster officers included Marlo Gdovin as President, Tonya Barrett as Vice President, Melisa Volpe as Treasurer, and Anna Feinberg as Secretary. Rosanne Beninato was assistant officer and Mrs. Charleen Race was the Booster Club advisor.

President Marlo Gdovin explained that the group of approximately 100 girls "worked well together because the committee chairmen volunteered to take care of a particular area and organized the other girls."

Thanks to the Boosters, R.H.S. students gained the spirit needed to become the best.

Council Stresses Quality

by Lisa Sapp

"Quality, not Quantity" best described the 1985-1986 R.H.S. Student Council attitude. Quality reigned at every activity sponsored by student council.

The first dance of the year was complete with decorations and the theme "Back to School-Hawaiian Style".

For the first time, alumni were invited back for Homecoming. New committees were formed, including a data display committee and a committee in charge of compiling the first student council scrapbook.

Incumbents of the 1985-1986 student council included Jacquie Eastman, President; Anil Bhardwaj, Vice President; Tami Myers, Treasurer; and Natalie Shope, Secretary.

A low treasury called for an umbrella sale during Kent's rainy autumn. During the year, innovative ideas such as this were presented to the council by the student body. The council then formed a committee to accomplish the job.

Mrs. Peggy Nichols, student council advisor since 1980, described the council's philosophy with the statement, "This year, council aimed at increasing active participation by forming committees and following through on plans."

More than 50 members from all four classes followed this philosophy and made the year a success for student council.

AFS "On The Go" All Year

by Tammy Hayden

AFS was "on the go" the whole year. If the students weren't visiting the Kent State Art Museum or the Quaker Square Plaza, they were putting on a dance in March and selling snacks before school.

AFS taught students about other countries and their people. It also let the exchange students meet new people and see what Ohio was like.

This year's AFS students were Jacqueline Kenter, from the Nether-

Guys And Dolls Have Espirit De Corps

Spirit at 7:30 in the morning is hard to show, but Guys and Dolls captured it. Their rehearsals were at 7:30 in the morning on Monday and Wednesday for Dolls and Tuesday and Thursday for Guys.

"The two ensembles were the backbone of the choir program," said Choir Director, Mrs. Nancy Smith.

On December 6, Guys and Dolls performed at the Christmas Tree Benefit for the Akron Children's Hospital at the Quaker Square Hilton. On other occasions, they sang for University Women, for the Rotary and for the Crestwood Choir Festival. Also, they competed in state contests in February for which they selected their own numbers and choreography, as they normally do for the Pops Concert.

"They are state superior and are always top-rated and they are expected to be again," said Mrs. Smith.

Choir Has Highlights

Master Choir, consisting of seniors, juniors, and some sophomores, is the more experienced of the two choirs at R.H.S. Because of this, Master Choir put on various shows besides the regular school concerts, such as the Crestwood Festival and the Festival of Six. Also the Choir gave an annual Christmas program at Quaker Square in Akron.

Pops Concert was the highlight of the year. It was the only concert in which both choirs sang the same recent popular songs.

President Gwen Abell stated that even though Pops is the highlight of the Choir season, she would like to see the Choir go to state contest. Gwen's proudest moment was "accepting a plaque for our participation at the Crestwood Festival."

Director Mrs. Nancy Smith was both impressed and proud with the sensitivity of this year's group.

Planning Brings Success For Colonel

The Colonel was distributed tri-weekly, or nine times during the school year. Students were asked to participate by contributing to the Colonel's editorials, contests, and surveys.

The Colonel's annual fundraiser was a candy sale.

Three Commodore 64's helped the Colonel staff by storing all the rough copies, and editing was simpler for the stories in each issue.

Chris Spencer and Gerald Davies were co-editors for the Colonel. The experience of being on the Colonel staff helped students prepare for college. As Chris Spencer explained, "The Colonel would be a good experience for anyone going into Journalism in college."

Students Visit Europe

by Tammy Hayden

From June 19 to July 16, members of the R.H.S. German class traveled in Europe. Mike Sisson, Patty Hendershot, Todd Heim, Jill Twark, Tim Dawkins, Carolyn Darrow, Tim Swanson, Beth McCoy, Paula Mazzer, Kevin Swing, Jon Keller, and Olaf Sander visited European cities including Heidelburg, Frankfort, Paris, Bavaria, and Stuttgart. At Stuttgart they stayed with the German Students that visited R.H.S. in April of 1985.

Senior Patty Hendershot stated, "It was really neat, and I know everyone wants to go back." Junior Paula Mazzer said, "The most fun was getting together with our German partners and taking side trips like Paris."

Apparently, most students found the RHS Boston Mills Ski Club's offers too good to pass up. Students were guaranteed 5 skiing sessions with the club. After these 5 times, members had the option of skiing individually every Tuesday as long as the weather permitted. The cost of these sessions ranged from 45 dollars (without ski rental) to 65 dollars (with ski rental).

Boston Mills has 1 beginner hill, 2 intermediate hills, and 3 advanced hills.

Joining the Ski Club seemed to guarantee fun and good memories, too. Freshman Thane Brooks responded, "My best memory was when some girl crashed into me and broke her leg."

Senior Mary Ellen Miller replied, "My favorite memory was when my ski fell off while I was on the Pete's Pride ski lift and the lift operator used physical force to make me retrieve my ski."

Science Club Benefits R.H.S.

This year, Science Club made 12 small electronic modules to plug into our computers. The computer boxes will help students collect data during experiments. Science Club was funded for this project through a grant of $500 from the Jennings Foundation. The project gives the club more direction because the members are doing something to help the school.

The advisor, Mr. Jon Secaur, said,"The project involves more students, especially the underclassmen, so that there is a better distribution of all grades. By joining the club as underclassmen they will be able to do more serious research in preparation for the upper grades."

The members also participated in the All-Portage County Science Fair in March by making projects and helping out at the fair.

DE: 'A Two-Way Street'

by Lisa Sapp

Distributive Education, or D.E., enabled students to combine work with their school schedule.

During third and fourth periods, an average of 15 students learned business skills ranging from human relations to sales.

Mr. Richard Pfeiffer, who began the D.E. program 20 years ago, explained that although D.E. helped students with job skills, the program was "a two-way street". The students were responsible for finding employment and maintaining a job through the year.

District and state competition between D.E. programs took place in the spring. Cory Spiker won fourth place in Finance and Credit, which made her eligible for national competition in Atlanta, Georgia in April. At the time of this writing, details about the results at Nationals were unknown.

Haircuts And Friends

by Tammy Hayden

The Cosmetology Program has existed at Roosevelt for 14 years. While the program has turned out many great hairstylists, this was not everyone's goal. Instructor, Mrs. Mary Jane Brannon said, "Some use the skill to work through college."

Teens from Kent, Stow, and Woodridge came to study cosmetology at RHS. The students became good friends because they spent a lot of time working together. The senior cosmetology students worked five hours a day, and the juniors worked four and a half hours.

COE Students Prepare For Future

by Lisa Sapp

COE (Cooperative Office Education) is a national organization of high school students who are interested in a future of secretarial work.

At RHS, COE spent 2 periods during the morning in an office-like atmosphere. The students learned secretarial-related work with computers. They were expected to behave as if they had been working in an actual office.

COE students spent their afternoons at work. Places of employment included Davey Jr. High, Davey Tree, an insurance appraisal office, a lawyer's office, a health spa, a bank, and a beauty shop.

COE was beneficial to students' future plans. Senior Sherry Stant explained, "We're trained enough to be able to get a job without going to another business school."

Jen Lear, senior, summed it up by simply saying, "COE has given me sufficient preparation for a future in secretarial work."

Office Systems Occupations

Office systems occupations was a two year course that taught juniors and seniors the skills needed in office work. In addition to learning typing, shorthand, filing, and accounting, the students also learned how to use computers, word processing, and office procedures.

In January the seniors worked in the afternoon at local Kent businesses, which gave them experience needed to hold jobs in this field. Some of the students worked for accountants, stockbrokers, and for large companies.

Ann Deacon, senior OSO student, stated, "OSO is a good opportunity to learn skills needed to acquire a job."

Seniors Tell All

Towards the end of the year, seniors grew more and more aware that their days at Roosevelt were numbered. Apprehension and excitement paved the way to that wonderful extravaganza called graduation. Soon, the memories of Roosevelt would fade, making way for new experiences.

But even though graduation was drawing near, seniors would most likely miss something about Roosevelt, whether it be their teachers, or just the color of the school.

Here are some things seniors said they would miss the most:
"The athletic programs and the 'V'" - Paul Hardy
"Mr. Kane's strive for excellence." - Melissa McBride
"Nothing." - Jim Kousaie

Senioritis

by Patty Hendershot

Towards the end of the school year, most seniors could not wait to graduate. Many caught an illness called "Senioritis." Starting after spring break, the seniors gradually began to decline in their school performance, and had a harder time paying attention in class. Here are what some seniors thought that "Senioritis" meant to them:

Sharon Murphy - "Feeling restless in school and putting off studying."

Darcy Knopf - "Being in class for only 10 minutes and beginning to daydream."

Diana Lacreta and Eileen Balthis - "Not being able to stand coming to school a whole day and counting the number of hours until graduation."

Buc McBride - "Not being able to stay in school the second half of the day sensibly."

Joe Shannon - "When a teacher tells you to do something and you look at them like you are a freshman."

Jon Rawson - "Not being able to attend all of my classes."

Dave Connolly - "Laziness if anything."

Laura Gilliam - "Having two study halls and still not getting your homework done."

Trial Parenting

by Janet Head

What did Steven Allen, Eggward, and Spike Jr. III have in common?

These fortunate "egg-babies" were chosen from mountains of cartons in area grocery stores to escape the dangers of being boiled or poached. Adopted by second semester marriage and family life students, the eggs were part of an optional project that, according to Mrs. Peggy Nichols, was designed to "help create an awareness of the responsibility and time involved in parenting."

Out of a class of 22, 21 students opted to participate in the project. They named and decorated their eggs at home and then brought them to school to be initialed by Mrs. Nichols.

For one week, the students had to treat their eggs as if they were real infants. They made carriers for their "babies" and were also required to keep a diary of the feelings or inconveniences that they experienced as parents.

"We really got to take it seriously," said Tim Johnson.

"It's a pain to carry it with you everywhere you go. I don't think I could take it for more than a week - it wakes you up to how careful you have to be," noted Mike Davis.

On the other hand, Dru Fullum, the one student who decided not to take part in the project, commented, "It's stupid; it's a woman's job."

All in all, Mrs. Nichols & the participants felt that the project made students more aware of parenting responsibilites.

Council Plans

Senior Council played an important part in giving its classmates a senior year no one would ever forget. Without the council's planning and creativity, the 1985-86 year would have been just another year for seniors.

Consisting of President Andrew Liske, Vice President Darcy Knopf, Secretary Caroline Walker, and Treasurer Helen Richards, the council planned an unforgetable year. One event, the Battle of the Bands, was held on May 17th. They also organized Senior Guest and the class trip to Geauga Lake on May 30th, which included the full service of the park from 11:00 p.m. to 5:00 a.m.

Prom, one of the year's highlights, was an exciting event. Thanks to the Senior Council's Limousine Raffle, one lucky couple was treated to a little more entertainment that night. Just for having the right raffle ticket, they won limo-service to and from the Prom.

Even though the seniors were not known for their class spirit, Vice President Darcy Knopf believed they were a spirited group. "We never won the spirit bell, but I know seniors have a lot of spirit."

Fear Cancels Europe Trip

by Lori Burns

Would you have been willing to go to Europe in the summer of 1986 in the wake of the increasing terrorism there?

The fear of terrorism meant that many students who had planned to travel to Europe, could not go. The trip was scheduled for June 25 to July 11 and plans included seeing England, France, and Spain. Senior Andrea Shanklin said, "Even though I wanted to go, I probably wouldn't have gone because of the terrorism." The trip was cancelled when only two students out of twenty-two were still willing to go.

After the U.S. attack on Libya, terrorism in Europe had grown. This terrorism was the main reason for the cancellation. Mr. Hornyak commented, "Times would have to be excellent before I plan another trip."

Whoopee!

New Policy In The Library

What is the "Whoopee Level"? According to Mrs. Wojnaroski, it is the noise level in the library. Sometimes during lunch periods in the library, the noise level seemed to rise and rise until one could not even study let alone think, - from all the talking and buzzing that went on. In order to cut this noise level down, the library devised the "Whoopee Level." This is how it worked: When the noise level in the library was too loud, the "whoopee level" sign on the door was red, meaning no one could go in due to too much noise. When the "whoopee" sign was green, the noise level was low and it was okay to enter the library.

Unfortunately, not everybody at Roosevelt knew what the "whoopee level" was. Here is what some people thought it was:

"The noise heard on Fridays downtown" - Roni Sue Angell

"I have never heard of that before." - John Roberts

And the real meaning of "whoopee level" . . . " 'Whoopee' is the general air that pervades the entire building at lunch time. The "whoopee level" is how much noise is going on in the library." - Mrs. Wojnaroski

Senior Experience

by Patty Hendershot

The Senior Experience Option initiated in 1984-85 for graduating seniors was in effect again this year. The Senior Experience provided a practical, community-based learning experience in community service, career exploration and general education interests.

Students had to participate five days for five and one-half hours a day. At the end of the program, the community sponsor evaluated the student's performance. The students had to turn in a final report about what they did each day and also filled out a questionnaire from the school asking what they thought about their experience and whether they got much out of it.

Here are some examples of what a few seniors did for the Senior Experience Option:

Jon Keller went to the K.S.U. library.

Sharon Murphy worked at Legacy for the people who helped produce "Alice in Blunderland."

Samantha Hamilton did secretarial work.

Francie Sawyer took classes in Physics (Advanced Accelerated Courses at a variety of differant colleges).

Kay Chestnut went to the Kent Quality Care Nursing Home.

Choices

by Lori Burns

You approach the mailbox with caution and when you open it, once again you see that it is overflowing with college pamphlets. They come from colleges all over the country, big schools and small. Those pamphlets signify a big decision in a student's life.

When choosing a school, there are many things to consider. On the educational side, it is important to look at the size, location, type of curriculum, and the strength of a school's programs. On the social side, you need to consider whether or not there are fraternities and sororities, what types of sports are offered, and if the school has planned activities to give you a break from classes. There are many other things to look at when deciding on a school, and the best way to do this is to visit the school and see what it is really like. Chris Spencer, who will be attending Moody Bible Institute in Chicago, said she picked her school after visiting it. "I really liked the school when I visited, and the people were very nice."

The decision you make that begins with a small pamphlet will change the rest of your life. The college you choose will be your home for at least four years, and will influence your opinions about many things.

Always remember that if you "fail to prepare, you prepare to fail" and that "some people get tired from doing their work while others get tired by trying to avoid it."

During the fall, yearbook staff members slid promotional cards with the following questions into students' lockers. As promised, here are the answers:

Has anyone under the age of 16 ever eaten brussel sprouts voluntarily?
No, but has a 16-year-old brussel sprout ever voluntarily eaten a teenager?

Who invented the "thick stuff" they use in all school cafeterias?
The same person who invented the rubbery macaroni.

It's acceptable to lick your fingers when eating fried chicken, but what about someone else's?
As long as they are a consenting adult, you may lick their fingers but not their fried chicken.

Who invented cheese balls and why?
Herman Crockernorver invented cheeseballs because he just could not get cheesesquares to hold their shape.

Is it true what they say about black jelly beans?
No, it's the white ones you have to worry about - eat a pound and find out.

If we only had six fingers, would the metric system be based on six?
The metric system would still be based on ten - we would just have to use our toes!

Are there any people who have never eaten library paste?
Yes, all those whose tongues are not stuck to their front teeth. Many of them belong to an organization called the PALPC or People Against Library Paste Consumption.

Do space aliens have navel lint?
No, space aliens have "Outies," therefore there wouldn't be "innie" lint.

Is this always true? . . . "Don't touch that, you never know where it's been."
It is absolutely, positively, without a doubt always true - except sometimes, when you may only touch it with a sterilized ten-foot pole with a rubber glove on the end of it.

Should you eat that little sprig of parsley they serve in restaurants or not?
No, the kitchen needs it back.

1969 - 1986

Imagine a petite, blonde-haired, blue-eyed girl with a bright and cheery smile. She has a furry, white dog named "Muppet" and her room is filled with the stuffed animals that she collects. She is a very hard worker and a perfectionist; no small detail on a biology worksheet or chemistry problem is insignificant enough to stop her from calling a friend to discuss it.

During her sophomore year, she acts as feature editor of the Colonel, enjoys writing speak-outs and editorials, and spends extra time on her layout making sure that the tool lines are straight. Student Council, French Club, and Drama Club are other activities that she is involved in. She also serves as a class officer and is chosen to be on the academic staff of the Rough Rider her junior year. After high school, she plans to attend college as a marine biology major.

These are just a few of the characteristics that made Jenny the special person she was. Despite the fact that she had cystic fibrosis, Jenny always set high goals for herself and never used her illness as a crutch. Her courage, strength, and determination provide an excellent example to all of us to strive for the best and to achieve the most that we can achieve.

Jenny once told her mother that when she died, she would run through a field of white flowers - without tubes and without coughing. Although she had to restrict herself physically, her illness never prevented her from striving for and reaching her goals. She never let the question "Why me?" prevent her from living a wonderfully full life and planning for her future. There is no doubt that Jenny is now running through a field of white flowers - and she is very much alive.

She was a very dear friend and we will miss her, but the happy memories she left behind will stay with us forever.

-Her friends

THE TUFT OF FLOWERS

I went to turn the grass once after one
Who mowed it in the dew before the sun.

The dew was gone that made his blade so keen
Before I came to view the levelled scene.

I looked for him behind an isle of trees;
I listened for his whetstone on the breeze.

But he had gone his way, the grass all mown,
And I must be, as he had been, - alone,

"As all must be," I said within my heart,
"Whether they work together or apart."

But as I said it, swift there passed me by
On noiseless wing a bewildered butterfly.

Seeking with memories grown dim o'er night
Some resting flower of yesterday's delight.

And once I marked his flight go round and round,
As where some flower lay withering on the ground.

And then he flew as far as eye could see,
And then on tremulous wing came back to me.

I thought of questions that have no reply,
And would have turned to toss the grass to dry;

But he turned first, and led my eye to look
At a tall tuft of flowers beside a brook,

A leaping tongue of bloom the scythe had spared
Beside a reedy brook the scythe had bared.

I left my place to know them by their name,
Finding them butterfly weed when I came.

The mower in the dew had loved them thus,
Leaving them to fluorish, not for us,

Nor yet to draw one thought of ours to him,
But from sheer morning gladness at the brim.

The butterfly and I had lit upon,
Nevertheless, a message from the dawn,

That made me hear the wakening birds around,
And hear his long scythe whispering to the ground,

And feel a spirit kindred to my own;
So that henceforth I worked no more alone;

But glad with him, I worked as with his aid,
And weary, sought at noon with him the shade;

And dreaming, as it were held brotherly speech
With one whose thought I had not hoped to reach.

"Men work together," I told him from the heart,
"Whether they work together or apart."

The Rough Rider Staff . . .

A Great Team!

by Rhonda Smith

Throughout the 1985-86 school year, the Rough Rider staff teamed up to catch the special events and the everyday activities in the school.

The photographers lurked in the halls, the classrooms, the cafeteria, the gymnasium, the library, and the stadium searching for just the right picture.

The layout staff took those pictures, added captions, polls, class pictures, and interesting stories to produce an exciting "double page spread" or "DPS".

After being proofed by the section editor, the editor-in-chief, and the advisor, the pages were sent to Jostens to be printed.

Meanwhile (while all of the "bookmaking" was going on), the D.E. class was busy selling ads to area businesses to help pay for printing.

The business manager sent out gift certificates and bills and made sure the whole thing stayed above water.

Besides their in-class assignments, staff members were also expected to give up time before and after school and during lunch to take orders and distribute books. Photographers often had to spend their weekends taking sports photos and dance photos.

The staff didn't seem to mind the hassles that each deadline created. To help ease the tension of their work, the staff enjoyed a Halloween party, a winter holiday party, and a recognition banquet.

The 1985-86 Rough Rider staff made a great team. Each person added his or her own style to create a great book.

Although the position of Editor-in-Chief was very trying at times I found it to be very rewarding. It gave me a chance to see what it was like to rely on other people. Although I got sick of being the bad guy having to have the staff rewrite stories, recrop pictures, re-do layouts, do artwork, and take pictures, I had a lot of fun.

I would like to thank my staff for all of their great ideas they put to use to produce a great book. I would especially like to thank Lisa Sapp for interviewing people for the introduction and getting layouts ready to be shipped. I also appreciate Tammy Hayden's help getting layouts ready to be shipped.

I appreciate the encouragement I got from Mr. McClure, who helped me put some of my ideas to use. I would also like to thank him for giving me the chance to be on the yearbook staff and be Editor-in-Chief.

I am grateful for the most outstanding parents I could ever have, who understand what it is like to be a teenager and have helped me get through most of those years. I'm glad they gave me a chance to make my own decisions and choose how I wanted to be and what I wanted to do.

Rhonda Smith

P.S. I want to wish the 1986-87 staff good luck. If they follow Janet Head, Lori Burns, and Mark Montemayor's lead they'll do just fine. They have what it takes to produce a great book.

The Rough Rider staff thanks:

The Record Courier for their donation.
